FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Monday: curfew expanded

September 10, 2017 – Flagler County has issued an emergency order extending the curfew from 7 a.m. Monday morning to noon.

“The forward movement of Hurricane Irma has slowed,” said Flagler County Emergency Manager Steve Garten. “We now expect dangerous winds and conditions to linger longer than first anticipated.”

The ban on the sale of alcohol continues and includes bars and restaurants in addition to liquor stores and grocery stores.

“Residents need to stay indoors and off the roadways until the hurricane has past us and it is safe,” County Administrator Craig Coffey said. First responders, FPL crews and Public Works teams will be performing rescues, handling downed electric lines, and removing trees and other debris from roadways. The roadways need to be clear of non-emergency traffic for these important activities.
