Debris hauling continues in Daytona North, private roadways

October 26, 2017 – Flagler County staff and contracted debris haulers have collected 30,000 cubic yards of vegetative debris – more than 1,300 truckloads.

“This debris has been collected since September 21 through Wednesday (October 26), and it has been taken to the final disposal site,” said Flagler County Project Manager Amy Kennedy. “We have also started to collect construction debris – 21 truckloads so far.”

Flagler County staff has been working 12-hour days, seven days a week, to clear the debris as quickly as possible. In total, 183 county-maintained roads within unincorporated Flagler County have been cleared of vegetative debris.

Crews are currently working in Daytona North, which rounds out debris collection on publicly maintained roadways in the unincorporated area of Flagler County.

There is a crew working on the barrier island within the private Maritime Estates community. It will continue its work south into Matanzas Shores.

Vegetative Debris collection is nearly complete in the private community of Plantation Bay. That crew will focus next on the Fairchild Oaks community.

“We appreciate everyone’s patience,” Commission Chair Nate McLaughlin said. “We are working very hard to get this work completed, and managing our resources wisely.”
