FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Native American Festival comes to Princess Place for 5th year

February 18, 2019 – Princess Place Preserve is the place to be this weekend for the fifth annual Princess Place Pow Wow, Flagler County’s Native American festival – complete with dancing, weapons demonstrations, wildlife exhibits, encampments and displays.

The festival runs 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, February 23, and Sunday, February 24. The family-friendly event offers both entertainment and education.

“The festivities will begin each day in the Pow Wow Arena with traditional dance, and a ceremony for veterans,” said Parks Manager Frank Barbuti. “There will be more than 50 tribes represented from North and South America.”

But dancing won’t be the only action.

There will be demonstrations on a variety of weapons, blacksmithing and flint knapping, the official term for making arrowheads. A canoe will be carved in the traditional way of Seminoles within their encampment at the festival.

Visitors can round out their experience by visiting the wild horse rescue area, face painting, pony rides and shopping at the trading booths. Food and refreshments will be available – including some authentic Native American food.

Besides Flagler County and the Deep Forest Native American Experience, this year’s sponsors include: Waste Pro, Palm Coast Signs, Ripple Effect, Class A Printing, Palm Coast Import Auto, WNZF Radio, Flagler Septic, Massey Pest Control, Central Florida Street Signs, and Rue and Ziffra Law Offices.

General admission is $5 per person, kids 12 and under are free.
