FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Tropical Cyclone 9 approaching Flagler's coast

September 13, 2019 – Tropical Cyclone 9, which could become Tropical Storm Humberto today, is approaching. With the storm comes the likelihood that Flagler County will be placed under a tropical storm watch or warning later today.

“We don’t want anyone to panic, but residents should secure loose outdoor items – like patio furniture – so they don’t become hazards,” said Emergency Management Director Jonathan Lord. “Also expect minor flooding.”

Flagler County will experience storm impacts all day on Saturday and Sunday morning. They could include: sustained tropical storm force winds and 3 to 6 inches of rain; potential coastal and Intracoastal Waterway flooding; and, tides one-half to one foot above normal at high tide due to minor storm surge.

“We just want people to be aware,” Lord said. “We will continue to monitor the storm and keep everyone posted about any significant change.”
