FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Native American Festival comes to Princess Place for 6th year

February 17, 2020 – Princess Place Preserve is the place to be this weekend for the sixth annual Princess Place Pow Wow, Flagler County’s Native American festival – complete with dancing, weapons demonstrations, wildlife exhibits, encampments and displays.

The festival runs 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, February 22, and Sunday, February 23. The family-friendly event offers both entertainment and education.

“The festivities will begin each day in the Dance Arena with the blessing of the arena. At 1 p.m. a ceremony for veterans, and several traditional dances – including the children’s Candy Dance, and renown Hoop Dancer Cody Boettner,” said Parks Manager Frank Barbuti. “There will be many 50 tribes represented from North and South America.”

But dancing won’t be the only action.

There will be demonstrations, storytelling, and historical presentations among the exhibits. A canoe will be carved in the traditional way of Seminoles within their encampment at the festival.

Visitors can round out their experience by visiting the wild horse rescue area, face painting, pony rides and shopping at the trading booths. Food and refreshments will be available – including some authentic Native American food.

General admission is $5 per person, kids 12 and under are free.

Sponsors include: Palm Coast Signs, Class A Printing, Waste Pro, Flagler Septic, American Janitorial Inc., WNZF News Radio, Massey Services, John Deere Ag-Pro, Yellowstone Landscape, and Central Florida Street Signs.
